"The name Las Vegas conjures up images of casinos, booze, magic shows, and, well, other things best not spoken of. But 14 miles away, a planned community called Mountain's Edge offers something completely different: an idyllic, peaceful suburban life.

A top-selling master planned community in the country, Mountain's Edge has everything a family would want: community parks, trails, open spaces, and two new elementary schools. It's no wonder that it's expected to see 19.4% household growth over the next five years, along with adjacent Enterprise, NV."
